2 INTRODUCTION

The National Child development Study, Sweep 9 (NCDS 9) was carried out using computer assisted web interviewing (CAWI) and computer assisted telephone interviewing (CATI). The survey instrument is a computer program written in a software package called IBM SPSS Data Collection (previously marketed as SPSS Dimensions). This document is a paper representation of this computer program.

2.1 Structure of the questionnaire

This paper representation covers both the CAWI and CATI versions of the questionnaire. Where there are variations between the two modes, CAWI mode specific text is indicated in green, and CATI mode specific text is indicated in red.

The interview includes three event history modules: Relationship history, Housing history and Employment history. These modules ask cohort members to update their situation in these areas in chronological order from a point set by the program. The date at which the cohort member is asked to update their situation from depends on when they were last interviewed and the history section:

Relationship history:

- Cohort members last interviewed at age 50 (2008/9), age 46 (2004/5) or age 42 (1999/2000) are asked to update their situation from the date of their last interview.
- Cohort members who were not interviewed at 42, 46 or 50 are asked to update their situation from the 1st January 2000.

Housing history and Economic History:

- Cohort members last interviewed at age 50 (2008/9) or age 46 (2004/5) are asked to update their situation from the date of their last interview.
- Cohort members who were not interviewed at 46 or 50 are asked to update their situation from the 1st January 2004.

2.2 Features of the documentation

2.2.1 Modules

The questionnaire comprises modules that contain a list of all the questions, answer options, and the routing conditions or 'rules' which govern when a particular question should be asked. In general, the module title summarises the topics covered within that module.

2.2.2 Questions and answers

Questions are given a unique name which is usually derived from the content of the question. Question names are identified by their bold formatting. The text of the question is displayed in sentence case, with the end of the question usually indicated by a question mark.

At all questions which include a pre-defined list, the respondent will choose his/her answer(s) from the list which is either read by the respondent (in the CAWI version of the program), or read out by the interviewer (in the CATI version of the program). There are two types of questions with a pre-defined list: single coded and multi-coded. Single-coded questions allow only one answer category to be chosen – unless otherwise stated, the question is single-coded. Multi-coded questions are generally identified by the term 'GRID' and then a list of the possible answer codes such as 'GRID: YES/NO'. These questions appear in the program in a grid format, and the respondent is required to provide an answer for each item (as to whether or not it applies to them). The grid format is used to maximise comparability between the CAWI and CATI modes. A small number of multi-coded questions are not in a grid format because this would have been inappropriate - these questions simply ask the respondent to select as many answers as apply.

Alternatively the respondent may be asked to provide a verbatim answer. This is indicated on questions with 'OPEN'. During CAWI interviews the respondent will type in the answer themselves, and during CATI interviews the interviewer will type in the verbatim answer the respondent gives.

2.2.3 Don't know and Refused

Unless otherwise stated all questions allow 'Don't Know' and 'Refusal' answers to be entered. Where these are not allowed, it is stated below the answers. To allow maximum comparability between the CATI and the CAWI modes, on the CATI version of the program 'Don't know' and 'Refusal' codes are not read out by the interviewer (and are 'spontaneous' only codes). On the CAWI program these answer codes do not initially appear on screen, and will only appear if the respondent attempts to click on to the next question without providing an answer.

2.2.4 Routing instructions

Routing instructions are fully detailed in italics at appropriate points. The routing condition is both explained in words and given in terms of the logical command. The expressions '<', '=', '>' are used to denote 'less than', 'equal to' and 'more than' respectively. The term '<>' means 'not equal to'. The routing condition is displayed immediately before the first question to which it applies and is indicated by an 'IF' statement. The end of the influence of a particular routing condition is indicated by an 'END OF FILTER' instruction.

2.2.5 Textfill

In some cases the text of a question may be varied automatically to take account of the particular circumstances of the respondent using a 'textfill'. These possible different wordings are defined along with the circumstances in which they are used. In other words, textfills are used to tailor the question wording to the respondent's circumstances. Textfills are preceded by '[' and followed by ']'. When more than one possible textfill appears within a question, they are separated by '/' .

2.2.6 Event history calendar

To aid the completion of the three event histories, an event calendar allows the respondent/ interviewer to enter the dates particular changes to their lives occurred. Respondents /interviewers are required to click in the correct cell to indicate the date a particular change occurred. The event calendars build up during the course of the interview as more information was completed, providing visual feedback to the respondent/interviewer. Two examples of the event calendar are shown below. The first example shows the calendar during the relationship history, and the second example shows the calendar in the employment history. Questions where the answers are collected in the calendar are indicated by '[COLLECT IN CALENDAR]'.

2.2.7 Checks

A range of checks are included in the program to alert the respondent/interviewer when an unlikely or impossible response has been entered. Due to the inclusion of the CAWI mode, the majority of checks in the survey are 'soft' checks which bring improbabilities to the attention of the respondent/interviewer and asks them to check the answers given. Each soft check provides the option for the respondent/interviewer to change their answer to a particular question(s) or continue on to the next question. A small number of 'hard' checks are also included when a warning is activated to alert the respondent/interviewer to an impossible answer and instructs them to change their answer (e.g. if a date of birth is entered in the future). Checks are referenced at the question at which they occur (e.g. Check H1) and specified in detail at the end of this documentation.

2.2.8 Help screens

Some questions contain a help screen, which is a text box providing additional information for the respondent/interviewer during the interview. A help screen is activated if the respondent/interviewer clicks on the help screen hyperlink (which reads as 'What if...' e.g. 'What if I don't know or don't want to answer?' 'What counts as someone living with me?'). Help screens then appear in a pop up window. Help screens are indicated and described at the question at which they occur.

2.2.9 Coding

Where verbatim answers are recorded (either at fully open-ended questions or questions with an 'other specify' answer code), coding of these texts was conducted in the postfieldwork data work. At times it was necessary to create additional codes. Final code frames are provided in a separate document.

2.2.10 Income / wealth information and ‘unfolding brackets’

Questions on income and wealth use of a series of questions referred to as ‘unfolding brackets’ which are triggered if a respondent refuses or is unable to provide an exact answer. The questions are designed to elicit a minimum and maximum value which define a range or “closed band” within which the actual value lies.

On entering the unfolding brackets, respondents are asked to say whether they have more, less or about the same as a particular value. This question is repeated using different values (which will be a lower or higher value depending on the answer to the preceding question). The procedure stops at the point when either an upper and lower bound is provided, the respondent refuses or says “don’t know”, or the respondent places themselves in the top or bottom bracket. The unfolding bracket questions are randomly ordered for each respondent such that any possible ‘anchoring’ effects (i.e. where people use the suggested figure as a reference point and make adjustments to it to reach their answer) from the procedure are averaged across the distribution, and the bracket values are selected on the basis of the density of the underlying financial variable.

 - Stakeholder pensions are new low cost pensions introduced in 2001 by the government. They are like personal pensions and the employer has to offer all its employees a provider so they can join the scheme if they want.
 - S226 plans are simply personal pension plans for the self-employed.
- All the above pension schemes are Defined Contribution schemes. These are often called money purchase schemes, and will usually be held through a financial company such as Equitable Life, or Scottish Widows etc.
